Sex, love and beauty have always gone hand in hand, and with today's black and white women, men have wonderful choices. I have seen white women on television, actresses like Kelly Brook, Megan Fox, Jessica Alba, etc., and their beauty matches their professionalism. No longer can men say that black women have the best bodies, because now white women have asses, breast and beauty to complement their chances in any contest. There should not be a generalization when it comes to women, because not all black women have great asses, and not all white women ass are flat. However, what makes them beautiful is in the eye of the beholder, and the beholders in this book are men. Men, of all lifestyles, are presenting their claim of what women they prefer, and why they choose them. In addition, there is more to love about women than their respective bodies, and the men help us to explore essential details of what make women beautiful to them. See, a woman can have a body like Serena Williams, but cannot boil an egg, or a woman can have beauty like actress Aishwarya, but is inept when it comes to sexually pleasing her man. Love transcends any boundaries society or Hollywood place on women, the essentialities that make men choose white women over black women, or vice versa, stems from experience they share with you in this book.
