Meet Alan and Alan 2 and Alan 3. They're all about to mess with the fabric of time in the pursuit of love, knowledge and finding a dry cleaner that can get blood out of a tuxedo.

Movie night asks the question: what happens when you are confronted with God like time traveling powers? At what point have you gone too far, and how do you break a loop that always ends at the same place? The first time Alan pressed the button on the time machine, he created a universe where love is lost and won at the same time, and you slowly realize that you can't trust anyone... not even yourself. The book has underlying themes of free will, personal identity and general philosophy.

So, what if? What if you had the chance to see how every decision you made plays out? This story develops from that obsession and quickly transitioned in a study on time travel, love, knowing yourself, and Tuxedo maintenance.

While partly based on an actual movie night, one that could have ended in many different ways, this Movie Night is a work of fiction and may demand just a little more brain power than sitting through an actual movie.
